

Ivan OSTROWICZ AUFGANG, Argentine-Spanisch, IMBA 2008/2009.
Spent a semester abroad at Tsinghua University (China)

"Born in Argentina, I lived in Spain and in France. I have a double Masters' Degree in Computers Sciences between France and Spain and work experience in both countries.

Interested in all the aspects of the Information Systems, my background covers different areas as security, operations, networks, project management in international firms.

My international orientation has influenced my choosing the right MBA programme: the RMS IMBA offered the possibility to spend a second semester abroad and benefited from a real international exposure with 80% of foreign participants.

In a more and more globalized world, we are daily forced life to deal with people from all over the world with different cultures and experiences. There are a lot of ways to learn how to manage culture shocks and multicultural teams. However, a local experience is the best way to cope with it."

My international experience only included a western country, that's why I took the opportunity to meet Asian culture.

Tsinghua University is one of the best universities in China with a worldwide reputation.

There are students from all over the world as you can guess. As the IMBA programme is in partnership with MIT-Sloan School of Management, I have been provided with high level courses. You can imagine how exciting it is to attend a conference with Tony Blair or CEO of a worldwide company.

This experience brought me a real chance to understand Chinese culture. I have made a lot of friends and professional contacts who will probably become my future business partners."
